APPIDAVIT OF MR. DUVALL -Mr. Edward W. Duvali, who was shot near Bladensburg, on Saturday last, by the German boy Glanz, in company with another, has unexpectedly got better, and, it is thought, will recover. The report of his death was, therefore, premature, and he fortunately lives to test fore Justice Clements, of Prince George's county, Maryland :

WORKS OF ART BY A WASHINGTONIAN -- At the jewelry store of Messrs Galt & Brother, on Pennsylvania avenue, are deposited two fine works of art, executed by a son of P. C. Johnson, Esq., of this city. The artist has selected for one of his subjects an Italian peasant boy. a Savoyard, and has produced an excellent picture. It represents the Savoyard in the paternal roof, the rustic and vine clad cottage of his early home, meditating with fea ful forebodings upon his future destiny, so natural to an inexperienced youth just starting out to earn his daily bread, and maintain his humble existence in the world of which he has but a vague conception These emotions are fei h fully depicted on the canvas. The other work young woman, with dark hair-probably the beau ideal of the young artist's fancy He is now in Dusseldorf, Germany, prosecuting his studies. These pictures give promise of his being a prominent American artist.

VISITORS ROM WASHINGTON .- The officers and managers of the Metropolitan Mechanics' Institute, of Washington, Prof Joseph Harvey, President, arrived yesterday morning and were met at Camden Station by the reception committee appointed by the Maryland Institute This committee, consisting of Mess s W. H. Young, Andrew Fiannigan, and W. H. Smith, escorted them to the Cattle Show, in Zimmerman's large empibus, where they spent several hours in examining the grounds, and in listening to the beautiful address of Mr. Robinson. At 2 o'clock they visited the hall of the institute, where they were welcomed in of the board of managers, which was responded be a profitable investment. te by Joseph Bradley, Esq , one of the managers of the Metropolitan, and also a vice President of the Maryland Agricultural Society. DISTURBING PUBLIC MEETINGS .- This is an offence of frequent occurrence, and one that Such is the story, and so is the end, or, at is particularly noticed by the corporation officers. The law is generally enforced with rigor in cases of the kind; but it does but little good. Last evening, a meeting at Carusi's Saloon, was much disturbed by persons who were there. Some of them were identified, and one arrested, and held to bail for court. This should be a warning to young men to behave decently when in company with ladies and gentlemen.

GEORGETOWN CORRESPONDENCE.

GEORGETOWN, October 6, 1854. Progress, in the way of private improvements in our city, appears to be the order of the day. In addition to the large number heretofore noticed by us, we discovered some half-dozen or more now under way. Several of cur city fathers have caught the contagion, costume peculiar to his rank, just leaving the and appear to be determined not to be outdone by their more humble constituents. On First street, Mr. Joseph Libbey and Jeremiah Orme two of the fathers, have each so theroughly remedeled and improved their fine dwellings as to do away with almost every vestige of their former antiquated appearance. On Bridge is a crayon portrait of a beautifully featured street, Mr. S. Cropley, another one of the fathers, has also greatly enlarged and so completely remodeled and regenerated his dwelling that it no longer bears the slightest re semblarce to its former self. The fine large building at the College is progressing rapidly, and by the close of the ensuing week, Mr. A. Borbet, the contractor for laying the brick, expects to be able to complete his portion of the work upon the main walls.

In consequence of the death, on last Sunday, ot Captain Purcell. of the canal steamer Congress, the packet line between our city and Harper's Ferry has been discontinued, and the steamer, we understand, is to be sold.
